You have nice intro of your unit but can add more about your community service & events. It appears you have many inactive links. I assume your site is still being built. Those links appear to address my comment. Please note, the links that are not active on the home page are active on the other pages. But they do not take you anywhere.

Comments:		Although I do give some credit for potential, the site appears to be under construction. The home page would appear to be nicer if it matched the other page formats. They were nicer. Links not complete should link to a page stating "under construction - please visit us soon". The site needs more meat to help sell the Squadron and USPS.
